TRIPOLI ACTIVITY MAP

OUTLOOK

Short term outlook

- The north-west coastline remains unstable. GNA Western Command has launched a new operation which aims to take control of the Ra's Ajdir border crossing, increasing tensions in the area of Zuwara which have resulted in clashes. Tensions also remain in Zawiyah and to a lesser extent Sabratah. The situation has the potential to spread along ethnic lines. Forces in Kabaw, Nalut and Jadu are mobilizing while militias in Tripoli are on high alert and have increased their presence around the city.
- There is potential for localized clashes and security incidents around the greater Benghazi area after the fall of Sidi Akribesh to the LNA. Some fighters have managed to escape and are being pursued by the LNA outside of the city. Security operations could also result in further localized clashes in the Sidi Akribesh area as the LNA look to ensure any remnants do not regroup once again.

Medium to long term outlook

- As political talks fail to find any meaningful agreements, the concept of fresh elections has begun to gain traction amongst the political establishment. Deep divisions remain amongst the various factions, and an election blueprint has yet to be agreed. A number of those supporting the idea do not necessarily support the notion of a democratic establishment but are looking to exploit elections in a bid to gain power. The general population also remain skeptical of the political process and remain unclear what they would be voting for, highlighting the lack of structure and agreements currently around the process. The elections will trigger further posturing and maneuvering from various factions.
- IS continues to become bolder, mounting hit and run attacks against security forces and critical national infrastructure. They are also conducting criminal activity to raise funds and to help supply the group. The terrorist organization is believed to be trying to rebuild its capability in Libya and manpower is reported to be heading to the south of the country. IS will continue to benefit from the lack of political and security unity in Libya and maybe looking to establish a fresh alliance with other extremist groups like al-Qaeda.

SIGNIFICANT EVENTS

Governance

- The UN Envoy to Libya, Ghassan Salamé has been criticized by the Libyan National Struggle Front after Salamé allegedly stated he would not hold any dialogue with Saif Gaddafi as he was wanted by the International Criminal Court for alleged war crimes. Salamé has refuted the claim and stated his comments were misreported and taken out of context.
- The family of former leader Muammar Gadhafi has called on Libyan citizens to register in the elections despite describing them as “poison in a cup of honey.”
- Haftar allegedly states he is supportive of elections however if the process fails, he may push forward his “popular mandate” and claim the presidency. Local reporting from Benghazi suggests people in general are supportive of the elections and of Haftar and have been registering to vote.
- The HNEC has stated that the number of voters reached 251,000 between December 06 and 30. The total of voters registered now stands at 1,761,000.
- HoR Prime Minister Abdullah al-Thinni has met with the Mayor of al-Bayda to discuss the possibility of providing a new HQ for the HNEC. The meeting comes after Haftar called for the HNEC to be moved out of Tripoli.
- On January 21 the Supreme Court of Tripoli will review an appeal by members of the Constitution Drafting Assembly (CDA) against the ruling of al-Bayda court on the legality of submitting the draft constitution to a vote. Al-Bayda court ruled against the adoption of the draft constitution by the CDA in October.
- The fuel shortage in Tripoli eased over the course of the week with the situation returning to normal.
- Reconciliation between Misrata and Tawergha has continued to progress this week. Tawergha families affected by the recent fire and flooding at the IDP camp in Serraj have received compensation while 301 “Halbous” Brigade (Misratan led) has offered to provide 70 apartments in the capital. A committee has also been established to help ensure that residents are able to return to the town from the 01 February.

January 05, 2018

Security

- Tensions are increasing around Miski in the Tibesti area of northern Chad between the local Tebu population and the army. The two sides clashed on December 26 at the entrance to the town and further fighting is expected. An unconfirmed report has suggested that a Chadian rebel group was moving a large armed convoy inside the Libyan Desert at the end of December however it is not known if the two issues are connected.
- The GNA Mol has approved a move to recruit 500 additional members of the diplomatic security service to help protect foreign embassies and missions in Libya. The move comes after an announcement last week that a number of EU embassies will reopen in early 2018.

There are seven suspects, some of who have been arrested however the incident has led the downfall of the chief of police. He is accused of failing to arrest those responsible for the murder but has claimed that the Presidential Council has failed the police.
- Young members of the Awagir tribe have called on the LNA to release the GNA Deputy Minister of the Interior Faraj Gaem. The demand was made in a statement published on January 01.
- GNA Western Command has launched a security operation around Zuwara and the border crossing at Ra's Ajdir. The situation has resulted in clashes with local militia and has the potential to spread along ethnic lines and cause further destabilization to the north west.

Economy

- The Libyan dinar has lost 9.1% of its value since November against the US dollar on the black market. In contrast, food prices have increased by 6% over the same period, increasing financial pressures on households.
- The public budget in Libya for 2018 has been set at around 42.5 billion Libyan dinar ($31 billion dollars at official bank rates). Oil revenue is expected to reach 22.5 billion dinars in 2018 while taxes and customs tariffs are expected to hit 2.5 billion. There is also an alleged 5.5 billion dinar surplus from 2017. There is a deficit of around 12 billion dinars between expenditure and revenue.
- Dr. Ahmidah Tarbah, Mayor of Derna, has stated that cash liquidity estimated at 5 million LYD (about $3.6 million) has arrived at Jomhouria Bank branches in the city. Tarbah stated that the money arrived after coordination with Brigadier General Kamal al-Jabali, commander of the Omar al-Mukhtar Operations Room (LNA). He also thanked the Petroleum Facilities Guard for 'providing humanitarian services and securing the cash in transit.'

Oil & Gas

- A helicopter carrying staff from an offshore platform near Sabratah to Tripoli nearly collided with another aircraft according to the NOC. Reports indicate the helicopter was carrying staff from Mellitah oil and gas at the time of the near miss. An investigation into the incident has begun.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS

Zuwara: GNA launches a security operation against smuggling and human trafficking

On January 04, the Osama Jweli, commander of the GNA Western forces, announced that he was launching an ‘anti-crime’ operation in western Libya. Jweli stated that the operation would be in coordination with different security agencies and was targeting human trafficking and fuel smuggling. The operation comes after a series of meetings held in December with the local council.

Jweli deployed troops into Riqdalin and al-Jmail, near Zuwara before forward mounting troops to the border crossing at Ra’s Adjir. The following day, clashes erupted close to the border crossing, in Abu Kammash, and in Zelten between GNA Western Command and local Amazigh Zuwara militias who had held the area. The border crossing was also closed.

Reports indicate that military movements have also begun in Kabaw, Nalut and Jadu while militias in Tripoli are watching the developments with concern. The targeting of Amazigh forces in Zuwara may well see wider destabilization along ethnic lines in the north-west area.

Sufi shrines targeted across Libya

Three Sufi shrines have been targeted this week. The first incident took place in Kufra on December 29 and saw the body of Mahdi al-Senussi exhumed and his shrine desecrated. The attack has been strongly condemned by GNA President Fayez Sarraj who has promised to bring the perpetrators to justice.

On the same day, the shrine to Libyan hero Omar al-Mukhtar was attacked in Suluq, Benghazi province. Omar al-Mukhtar was a Libyan resistance fighter against the Italian occupation from 1911. Mukhtar had a strong relationship with the Senussi Movement from 1895. The third incident saw the Marabat shrine near Misrata attacked on December 31.

Misrata: The mayor's murder revealed as an internal tribal issue

The perpetrators of the murder of the Mayor of Misrata have been revealed as members of the mayor's own tribe – the Ramla. Seven people are suspected of involvement including three brothers. The men were involved in an incident in al Khoms in November where the three brothers lost a fourth brother. The mayor's apparent refusal to name him as a martyr is believed to have been the trigger for the attack. However, it is believed that they had intended to abduct and blackmail him and not kill him.

IS: Interviews give an insight into the group which AFRICOM warn is planning further attacks

Interviews with two IS members arrested by the LNA in Sabah have been aired on Egyptian TV. One man described how he and his family traveled from France to join IS in May 2016. He claims his family was sent to live in Derna while he undertook basic training and went on operations with IS units in the desert. He claims that towards the end of his tenure, IS units consisting of six men and two vehicles were sent into the desert to carry out criminal activity as the group's funds were running low in the area. He was apparently losing faith in the organization at the time of his arrest. He claims he ended up with scabies while his family went hungry and cold in Derna. He refused to leave the medical facility in Sabah after treatment for scabies and was waiting for his family to join him from Derna when he was arrested.

The second man claimed to have been in Benghazi from 2013 after traveling there from his home in Egypt. He pledged allegiance to IS in July 2015 and took part in four operations against the LNA. He eventually fled the city, describing how they took hostages to exchange for those arrested by the LNA. He eventually also ended up in Sabah where, like the French national, he was arrested.

US Africa Command stated this week that the group was continuing to rebuild its capability in Libya and is believed to be planning attacks against a number of targets including the oil crescent. AFRICOM believe they will continue to mount hit and run type attacks as they regroup.
